"Two amazing women!"

Jim Dixon, Former Head of the Peak District National Park

"Today's course was thought-provoking to say the least. Hearing about accessibility issues from two people who have real insight was eye-opening, even humbling."

Programme Aims:

To create an 'in-house' accessibility resource for your organisation who:

- Understands the barriers faced by visitors with access needs and knows how to help overcome them.
This includes visitors with: hearing impairment, vision impairment, mobility impairment, autism, learning difficulties and dementia.
- Is able to train your staff 'in-house' on providing Access For All
- Knows how to carry out a simple accessibility audit of your site
- Can create an on-line Accessibility Guide for your venue
- Knows how to market the accessibility of your venue locally and nationally
- Is a confident, in-house resource for your staff on providing a warm and inclusive welcome for all

- Excellent value for money
- Huge savings on the cost of training your staff externally
- Ground-breaking programme: first of its kind in the U.K.

Includes:

3 nights' accommodation, full English breakfast, lunch, 3 course evening meal and refreshments at the award-winning East Lodge Hotel in Rowsley, Derbyshire

- Training resources and all the materials you need to deliver Access For All training in-house
- An Access For All UK 'Access Box' to get you started with improving the accessibility of your venue straight away!
- Two expert trainers for the full programme
- Tour of Chatsworth House
- Sensory Brewery Tour
- Sensory 'chocolate themed' meal
- Membership of the National Network of Accessibility Champions
